DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim(s) 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Snyder (6,458,028) in view of Weck (5,016,525). Snyder discloses all of the limitations of the claim(s) except for the diffuser being a generally planar, integral, circular structure formed of thin, rigid material and having a circumferential outer edge and a central opening dimensioned to accommodate an electrical junction box, and having a plurality of radially extending fins, each bent to extend at a common angle to the plane of the structure and a radially extending air slot opening in conjunction with each fin. Weck discloses the presence of a generally planar, integral, circular structure formed of thin, rigid material and having a circumferential outer edge and a central opening dimensioned to accommodate an electrical junction box, and having a plurality of radially extending fins, each bent to extend at a common angle to the plane of the structure and a radially extending air slot opening in conjunction with each fin. See fig. 2. Hence, one skilled in the art would find it obvious to modify the system of Snyder to include the generally planar, integral, circular structure formed of thin, rigid material and having a circumferential outer edge and a central opening dimensioned to accommodate an electrical junction box, and having a plurality of radially extending fins, each bent to extend at a common angle to the plane of the structure and a radially extending air slot opening in conjunction with each fin of Weck for the purpose of better airflow direction. See col. 2, lines 35-45 of Snyder.

Claim(s) 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Snyder in view of Weck and in further view of Pellegrino. Snyder in view of Weck discloses all of the limitations of the claim(s) except for a smudge ring. Pellegrino discloses the presence of a smudge ring. See 20. Hence, one skilled in the art would find it obvious to modify the system of Snyder in view of Weck to include a smudge ring of Pellegrino for the purpose of dust prevention.

Claim(s) 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Snyder in view of Weck and in further view of Cook (6,168,517). Snyder in view of Weck discloses all of the limitations of the claim(s) except for a circular cap that covers a central opening in the diffuser. Cook discloses the presence of a circular cap that covers a central opening in the diffuser. See col. 8, lines 19-27. Hence, one skilled in the art would find it obvious to modify the system of Snyder in view of Weck to include a circular cap that covers a central opening in the diffuser of Cook for the purpose of aesthetics.

Claim(s) 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Snyder in view of Weck and in further view of Core (6,030,287). Snyder in view of Weck discloses all of the limitations of the claim(s) except for a planar damper configured to removably cover a preselected number of the radially extending air slot openings to providing means of selectably regulating the slot openings and bendable clips being fixed at one end to the circular structure. Core discloses the presence of a planar damper configured to removably cover a preselected number of the radially extending air slot openings to providing means of selectably regulating the slot openings and bendable clips being fixed at one end to the circular structure. See 150a. Hence, one skilled in the art would find it obvious to modify the system of Snyder in view of Weck to include a planar damper configured to removably cover a preselected number of the radially extending air slot openings to providing means of selectably regulating the slot openings and bendable clips being fixed at one end to the circular structure of Core for the purpose of ease of removing.

Further, it has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 9 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
